- Definitions:
 - A person with complex needs (and requiring complex care) has two or more needs affecting their physical, mental, social or financial wellbeing. Such needs typically interact with and exacerbate one another and require a high level of support.
 - Condition* refers to a state relating to a person's health and functional status usually related to a specific illness, disease or disability.

- Health or wellbeing setting includes but is not limited to – the aged care, acute care, community support, disability, mental health, rehabilitation, social services and youth development sectors.
 - Organisational policies and procedures refer to policies, procedures, and methodologies of an organisation. They include legislative and regulatory requirements which may apply across an organisation, a specific site, or a workplace. Requirements are documented in organisational health and safety plans, contract work programmes, quality assurance programmes, policies, and procedural documents such as job descriptors and employment contracts.
 - Person refers to an individual accessing services. Other terms used for the person may include client, consumer, customer, patient, individual, resident, service user, tūroro, tangata, tangata whai ora or tangata whai kaha.
 - Person-centred approach – an approach which places the person being supported at the centre by encouraging participation and choice, and viewing them as an individual with unique qualities, abilities, interests, preferences and needs.
 - Personal plan – a generic term that covers the individual or group plans (which may also be referred to by other names) that are developed for people receiving support (and may include their family and whānau as appropriate).
- 4 Candidates' practice must reflect appropriate values, processes, and protocols in relation to working with Māori and Pacific peoples and/or people from other cultures, in a range of settings and environments.
